1148 King Street East
Oshawa, ON L1H 1H8

PLEASE NOTE THAT:

Whether or not you have a Spouse is a question of fact based on your Applicable Pension Legislation so please refer to the definition of "Spouse" for your Applicable Pension Legislation as set out in Schedule A. If you are uncertain as to whether someone qualifies as your "Spouse" under Schedule A, or if you believe that there is more than one person who qualifies as your "Spouse", please contact the Retirement Department at 1-905-433-0011 or by e-mail at retirement@adventist.ca.

This form replaces any previous spousal declarations and/or beneficiary designations which you have made under the Plan (subject to legislative requirements applicable to beneficiary designations in Quebec and British Columbia as set out in Section E and Section F).

In the event of any future marriage, civil union or conjugal relationship, or of a breakdown of marriage, civil union or conjugal relationship, there may be an impact on your spousal status or beneficiary designation for Plan purposes. It is important that you keep the Retirement Department advised of any such change.

- You should advise the Retirement Department and, as appropriate, you should update your spousal declaration. Note that if you had previously declared a person to be your Spouse and are changing the name of your Spouse you may be asked for proof that the previous person has lost his or her spousal status.
- Should you wish to change your beneficiary designation or if applicable, name or rename your former Spouse as a beneficiary you may do so by completing and returning a new Spousal Declaration and Beneficiary Designation Form to the Retirement Department.

SECTION D – DESIGNATION OF BENEFICIARY

I understand that:

- In accordance with my Applicable Pension Legislation, my Spouse is entitled to certain spousal death benefits following my death, regardless of any beneficiary I may have designated.
- If I do not have a Spouse at the earlier of the date my pension commences or my death*, or if my Spouse has waived the right to receive spousal death benefits, my beneficiary is entitled to the death benefit payable under the Plan. Therefore it is important to designate a beneficiary regardless of my current spousal status. I am aware that I may designate my Spouse, as identified under Section B, as my beneficiary under this Section D. However, I also understand that as long as no waiver of spousal death benefits has been filed, my Spouse determined at the earlier of the date of my pension commencement or death* will, except as noted below, be entitled to any death benefit payable under the Plan regardless of who I designate as my beneficiary.
- It may be appropriate to designate an individual other than my Spouse in the event that I do not have a Spouse on my date of death* and I want the death benefit under the Plan to be paid to an individual other than my former Spouse.
- If my designated beneficiary is a minor at the time of my death*, or is deemed to be incapable of handling his own affairs as a result of physical or mental infirmity, payment will be made, subject to any applicable legislation, to the person who is legally entitled to receive the payment on behalf of such individual.
- If a death benefit is payable to my Spouse or beneficiary and I do not have a Spouse or beneficiary, as the case may be, at the date of my death*, any death benefit payable under the Plan following my death will be paid to my estate.
- Subject to Section E and Section F, I reserve the right to change this beneficiary designation at any time in the manner and form permitted by applicable laws. My appointment of another beneficiary will automatically revoke any previously appointed beneficiary. I acknowledge that my beneficiary designation remains in effect until it is revoked in the manner and form permitted by applicable laws.

BENEFICIARY DESIGNATION

If I do not have a Spouse at the date of my death*, or my Spouse is permitted to and has waived the right to receive or is otherwise disentitled by law to the spousal death benefits, the person(s) named below as my beneficiary will receive any benefits that may be payable on my death under the Plan. Accordingly, I hereby designate the following beneficiary(ies):

Schedule A

Applicable Pension Legislation and Definition of Spouse

The Applicable Pension Legislation governs your member rights and obligations under the Plan. The Applicable Pension Legislation generally refers to the legislation of the province where you report to work, regardless of where you live. If you do not report to an employer work establishment, then the Applicable Pension Legislation is the legislation of the province from which your remuneration is paid. If you are uncertain as to which Applicable Pension Legislation applies to you, please contact the Retirement Department at 1-905-433-0011 or by e-mail at retirement@adventist.ca.

To determine the applicable definition of Spouse, please refer to the definition of Spouse for your Applicable Pension Legislation.

Note: A future marriage, civil union or conjugal relationship breakdown may affect the right of a Spouse to receive spousal pre-retirement death benefits and/or a post-retirement survivor pension, or the Spouse's eligibility. Final spousal entitlement will be determined on the earlier of the date of your death (or the day preceding your death, for a Quebec member) and pension commencement as applicable.

Spouse means:

Federal

- (a) if there is no person described in (b), a person who is married to you or who is party to a void marriage with you; or
- (b) a person who is cohabiting with you in a conjugal relationship on the relevant date, having so cohabited with you for at least one year.

Note: Where you have a spouse from whom you are separated, and a common-law partner with whom you are co-habiting at the relevant time, your common-law partner will be entitled to benefits on death or pension commencement.

Alberta

- (a) a person who is married to you and has not been living separate and apart from you for a continuous period longer than 3 years; or
- (b) if there is no person to whom (a) applies, a person who has lived with you in a marriage-like relationship
 - (i) for a continuous period of at least 3 years immediately preceding the relevant time; or
 - (ii) of some permanence, if you are the natural or adoptive parents of a child of the relationship

British Columbia

- (a) a person who is married to you, and who, if living separate and apart from you has not been living separate and apart from you for longer than the 2 year period immediately preceding the relevant time; or
- (b) if (a) does not apply, a person who is living and cohabiting with you in a marriage-like relationship, and who has been living and cohabiting in that relationship for a period of at least 2 years immediately preceding the relevant time.

Manitoba

- (a) a person who is married to you;
- (b) a person who, with you, has registered a common-law relationship under Section 13.1 of the Vital Statistics Act; or
- (c) a person who is not married to you and who has been cohabiting with you in a conjugal relationship
 - (i) for a period of at least 3 years, if either you or the other person is married; or
 - (ii) for a period of at least 1 year, if neither you nor the other person is married.

Note: In Manitoba, the spouse does not have entitlement to a pre-retirement survivor or a joint and survivor pension if, at the time of death or retirement, as applicable, the member was living separate and apart from the spouse or common-law partner by reason of a breakdown of their relationship.

New Brunswick

- (a) a person who is married to you;
- (b) a person who is married to you by a marriage that is voidable and has not been avoided by a declaration of nullity;

Note: In Nova Scotia, a person who meets the definition of spouse may not be entitled to a post-retirement survivor pension or a pre-retirement death benefit if such person has waived entitlement to such benefit or is otherwise not entitled to such benefit through a court order or a written agreement that provides for the division of the pension benefit.
